One of the most prestigious awards in dentistry was recently bestowed upon Houston native, Dr. Wayde Fawcett, president of Fawcett Center for Dentistry. Dr. Fawcett was among 157 dentists to be honored with the title "Master of the Academy of General Dentistry (MAGD), considered to be one of the most respected designations in the profession. Only 2,200 dentists have been awarded this honor from the Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) in its 44-year history. The AGD is the world's second largest dental association with an active membership of over 35,000.

"This is an outstanding accomplishment for Dr. Fawcett," says AGD President, Vincent Mayher, DMD, MAGD. "By completing the rigorous requirements to become a Master, Dr. Fawcett goes above and beyond the basic licensure requirements in his state to keep his practice on the cutting edge. This award truly distinguishes Dr. Fawcett from others in the dental community."

Dr. Fawcett has been practicing dentistry in Houston for the past 23 years and has remained committed to the continuing education and training necessary to ensure that his clients benefit from the latest techniques & technology. His boutique dental practice offers a full range of comprehensive dental services and strives to ensure that clients have a 5-star experience each visit. "We believe that our clients deserve the best treatment & personal attention in the most relaxing environment we can provide." states Dr. Fawcett.
